Introduction to the DISC & Motivators Combined Report

Research shows that the most successful people share the common trait of self-awareness. They're able to more quickly recognize situations that will make them more successful. With this personalized and comprehensive DISC and Motivators combined report, you have tools to help you become a better you.

Please Note: Any behavioral descriptions mentioned in this report are only tendencies for your style group and may or may not specifically apply to you personally.

Remember:

- DISC measures observable behavior and emotion.
- Motivators shows the values that drive our behavior and emotion.

When our DISC and MOTIVATORS are in alignment, we have personal synergy. When our DISC and MOTIVATORS are not in alignment, we experience personal conflict or tension.

How to Use This Report

With this personalized and comprehensive DISC and Motivators combined report, you have tools to help you become a better you. The report is divided into 3 parts:

- Part I focuses on understanding each of the DISC styles through identifying characteristics, including the tendencies of each behavioral style. It also introduces the 7 Motivators that drive our behaviors and the definitions of each
- Part II reveals what makes you unique, through greater understanding of your own behavioral tendencies and blend of motivators.
- Part III explores adaptability and offers actionable recommendations for you and others who interact with you, helping you use this information as effectively as possible for immediate results.

PART I - UNDERSTANDING DISC & MOTIVATORS

DISC STYLES

DISC is a simple, practical, easy to remember and universally applicable model. It focuses on individual patterns of external, observable behaviors and measures the intensity of characteristics using scales of directness and openness for each of the four styles:

Dominance, Influence, Steadiness, and Conscientious.

STYLE	TENDENCIES
Dominance	Tends to be direct and guarded
Influence	Tends to be direct and open
Steadiness	Tends to be indirect and open
Conscientious	Tends to be indirect and guarded

Using the DISC model, it is easy to identify and understand our own style, recognize and cognitively adapt to different styles, and develop a process to communicate more effectively with others. As you begin to explore the DISC styles and see them in your own life and in your relationships, keep in mind the following:

BEHAVIOR DESCRIPTORS OF EACH STYLE

DOMINANCE	INFLUENCE	STEADINESS	CONSCIENTIOUS
Decisive Competitive Daring Direct Innovative Persistent Adventurous Problem Solver Results Oriented	Charming Confident Convincing Enthusiastic Inspiring Optimistic Persuasive Sociable Trusting	Understanding Friendly Good Listener Patient Relaxed Sincere Stable Steady Team Player	Accurate Precise Analytical Compliant Courteous Diplomatic Detailed Fact Finder Objective

PACE AND PRIORITY: Two main sources of tension between the styles

PACE Direct, Fast-Paced vs. Indirect, Slower-Paced	PRIORITY Guarded, Task-Oriented vs. Open, People-Oriented	PACE & PRIORITY Direct, Fast-Paced, Guarded, Task-Oriented vs. Indirect, Slower-Paced, Open, People-Oriented

MOTIVATORS

Research shows that the most successful people share the common trait of self-awareness. They're able to more quickly recognize situations that will make them more successful. As such, it's easier for them to find ways of achieving objectives that resonate and align with their motivations. Those who understand their natural motivators better are far more likely to pursue the right opportunities, for the right reasons, and get the results they desire.

Motivation helps influence behavior and action. It is vital for superior performance to ensure that your motivations are satisfied by what you do to drive your passion, reduce fatigue, and inspire you.

The Motivators assessment is the result of Dr. Eduard Spranger's and Gordon Allport's combined research into what drives and motivates an individual. The dimensions of value discovered between these two researchers identify the reasons that drive an individual to utilize their talents in the unique way they do. These pages will help you understand your motivations and drivers, providing a clear course on how to maximize your performance by achieving better alignment with your passion for what you do and your behavior.

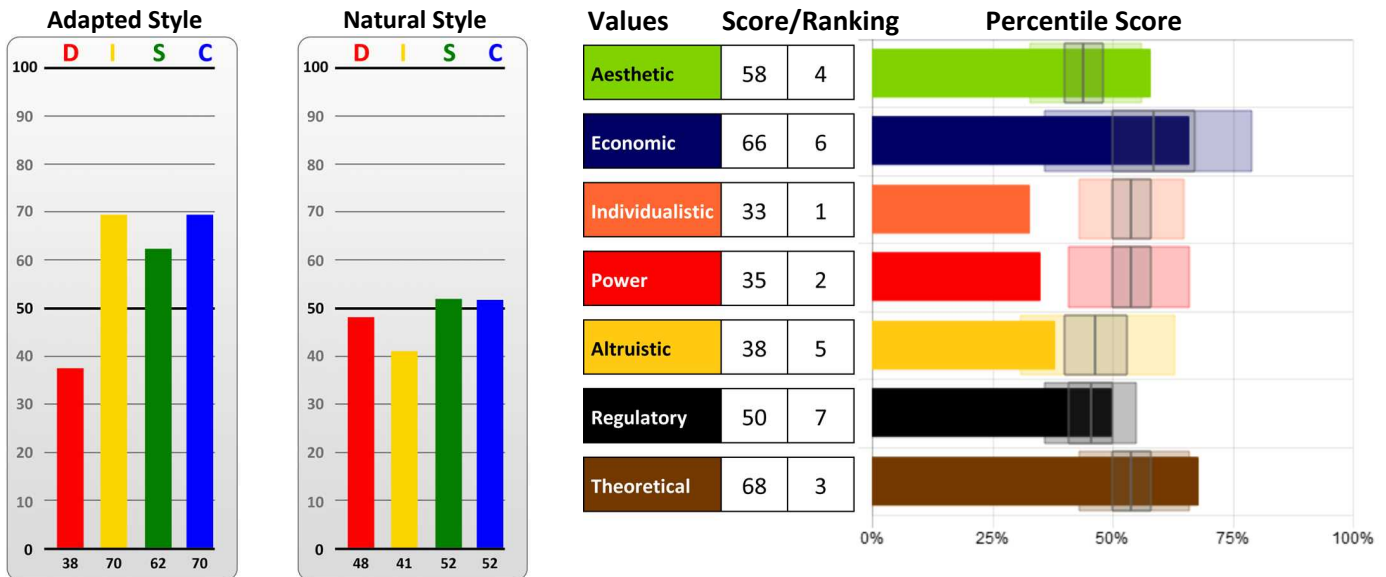

The Elements of the Motivation Index

This Motivation Index is unique to the marketplace in that it examines seven independent and unique aspects of motivation. Most similar instruments only examine six dimensions of motivation by combining the Individualistic and Power into one dimension. This assessment remains true to the original works and models of two of the most significant researchers in this field, thus delivering to you a profile that truly helps you understand your own unique drivers.

The Seven Dimensions of Motivation measured in this report are:

-  Aesthetic - A drive for balance, harmony and form.
-  Economic - A drive for a return on investment.
-  Individualistic - A drive to stand out as independent and unique.
-  Power - A drive to be in control or have influence.
-  Altruistic - A drive to help others at the expense of self.
-  Regulatory - A drive to establish order, routine and structure.
-  Theoretical - A drive for knowledge, learning and understanding.

PART II - UNDERSTANDING YOURSELF

DISC describes you based on your observable behavior which can provide insights for others regarding your communication preferences and how you will likely interact with and respond to them.

MOTIVATORS describe you based on your values and beliefs. Understanding motivation helps reveal your preferences and why you do what you do. It is vital for aligned, superior performance that our motivators are satisfied by what we do.

Through this report you have an opportunity to discover (observe and evaluate) your behavioral responses in various environments and examine your unique values and what drives you to behave in the ways you do. You can explore your actions and reactions (and the actions and reactions of others) in a variety of situations and contexts to determine the most effective communication strategy or course of action to be sure you are living in alignment and able to express your best self.

DISC General Characteristics

The narration below serves as a general overview of your behavioral tendencies. It provides a framework for understanding and reflecting on your DISC results. We've occasionally provided some coaching ideas so that you can leverage your strengths whenever possible to maximize your personal success.

You demonstrate extremely high attention to detail as you strive for perfection. You strive to make things as high-quality as possible and may be disappointed when things turn out just "pretty good." Few people on the team have the ability to attend to details and to follow through the way you do.

Sample, people who score like you may tend to get bogged down in details during the decision-making process, thinking that there may be more information forthcoming that might impact the choice. It's true that there will almost always be more information available if we continue to wait; however, there is also a time at which the collection of data must stop and the decision must be made. Be aware of this when facing a series of data-driven decisions.

Your score pattern indicates that you tend to maintain a keen awareness of time. You tend to be on time or early for appointments, and expect the same consideration of your time from others. It annoys you when certain people are perpetually late, or when meetings drag on with no assigned time to end.

Sample, your motto could be, "There is a right way and a wrong way to complete all projects. Let's complete it the right way." You score like those who read instructions on new appliances and computers. Whether at home or at the office, you like to do things correctly. When writing, rarely do you have the need for spell-checking or proofreading for grammar.

Your response pattern on the instrument indicates that you persuade others by careful attention to detail, and through facts, data, and logic, rather than emotion. People can depend on you to present a case that is logical and supportable. This is the primary strength that you bring to a team or organization when at the decision-making table.

You are very conscientious and attentive to follow through in working on detailed projects and complex assignments. Others on the team can depend on you and the efforts you provide to make the project a success. Some on the team may not realize all of the work you have done, and all the thought you have given to the project, because much of it might have been done behind the scenes. To maintain your own sense of accomplishment, be certain that others on the team know what you're doing for them in the background. Your modesty may make this a challenge, but you should always find a time and place to make sure your efforts are being recognized.

You tend to evaluate others by how well they implement and execute procedures, standards, and quality action. You hold others accountable to the same high standards that you maintain for yourself. Those who demonstrate these high standards (as you know, they are somewhat rare) are individuals that you will tend to hold in esteem.

You like your space to be neat and well-organized. When the workspace is clean and clutter-free, you are more able to focus clearly on the project at hand.

Your Behavioral Style: Formalist

Formalist rely upon procedure and structure in all aspects of life. They are detailed oriented and seek perfection. They need to know the expectations and the timetable for their work. They can get bogged down in detail and will not rush important decisions. They will take a risk if they have the facts to support it. They may be initially suspicious of personal compliments, praise or flattery.

Below are some key behavioral insights to keep in mind and share with others to strengthen your relationships.

- Emotional characteristic: Internally focuses energy on holding themselves to exacting standards and doing things right; may appear reserved and restrained.
- Goals: To achieve stable and reliable accomplishments.
- How others are valued: The consistent ability to be precise and accurate.
- Influences group: Through detailed and accurate input to team efforts.
- Value to the organization: Will embrace and support high quality and expected standards.
- Cautions: Rely too much on past procedures; can become rule bound.
- Under Pressure: May revert to too much diplomacy and overly careful maneuvering.
- Fears: Aggressive, risky and confronting interactions; superficial personal relationships.

WORD SKETCH - Adapted Style

DISC is an observable “needs-motivated” instrument based on the idea that emotions and behaviors are neither “good” nor “bad.” Rather, behaviors reveal the needs that motivate that behavior. Therefore, once we can accurately observe one’s actions, it is easier to “read” and anticipate their likely motivators and needs.

This chart shows your ADAPTED DISC Graph as a “Word Sketch.” Use it with examples to describe why you do what you do and what’s important to you when it comes to (D)ominance of Problems, (I)nfluence of People, (S)teadiness of Pace, or (C)onscientiousness of Procedures. Share more about the specific needs that drive you in each area of FOCUS. If your DISC intensity scores at levels 1 and 2, your emotions and needs are the opposite of those at Levels 5 and 6 in that area.

DISCstyles Graphs for Sample Report

Your Adapted Style indicates you tend to use the behavioral traits of the ICs style(s) in your selected Work focus. Your Natural Style indicates that you naturally tend to use the behavioral traits of the SC style(s).

Your Adapted Style is your graph displayed on the left. It is your perception of the behavioral tendencies you think you need to display to be successful in your focus situation. This graph may change when you change roles or situations.

The graph on the right is your Natural Style and indicates the intensity of your instinctive behaviors. It is often a better indicator of the “real you” and your “knee jerk”, inherent behaviors. This is how you would choose to behave when you are most comfortable and there are no additional considerations or influences on your behavior. It is also what shows up in stressful situations. This graph tends to be fairly consistent, even in different environments.

Adapted Style - Graph I

Pattern: ICs (3545)
Focus: Work

Natural Style - Graph II

Pattern: SC (3344)

If the bars are similar, it means that you tend to use your same natural behaviors in either environment. If your Adapted Style is different from your Natural Style, this may cause stress over a long period of time because you are using behaviors that are not as comfortable or natural for you.

The higher or lower each D, I, S, C point is on your graph, the greater or lesser that behavior impacts your results at work and with others around you. Once aware, you can adapt your style to be more effective. Can you change? Of course! You do it every day depending on your situations. However, permanent behavioral change comes only with awareness and practice.

The BPV has eight behavioral zones. Each zone identifies a different combination of behavioral traits. The peripheral descriptors describe how others typically see individuals with your style. Plots on the outer edges of the BPV identify that one factor (DISC) of your style will dominate the other three. As you move towards the center of the BPV, two and eventually three traits combine to moderate the intensity of your style descriptors within a specific behavioral zone. +The plus sign indicates that the preceding style score is higher, moving you closer to that style zone (i.e. CD+S: The D score is stronger than in CDS so it plots closer to the D behavioral zone).

C = Conscientious/Compliance/Structure: How you deal with Procedure and Constraints

MORE ABOUT YOUR DISC STYLE

In this portion of the report, you'll learn more about your DISC style behavioral tendencies and emotions. This information can be useful in helping you understanding your own behavior, and also support you in learning about and understanding others more effectively.

Communication Tips for Others

The following suggestions can help others who interact with you understand and be aware of your communication preferences. To use this information effectively, share it with others and also discuss their preferences.

Check the two most important ideas when others communicate with you (dos & don'ts) and transfer them to the Summary of Your Style page.

When Communicating with Sample, DO:

- List pros and cons to suggestions you make.
- Be certain that individual responsibilities are clear, and that there are no ambiguities.
- Be sensitive to possible areas of disagreement as Sample may not be verbal about them.
- Ask 'how' oriented questions to draw out Sample's opinions.
- Outline individual tasks and responsibilities in writing.
- Assure Sample that there won't be any unexpected surprises.
- Give Sample time to verify the issues and potential outcomes.

When Communicating with Sample, DON'T:

- Leave an idea or plan without backup support.
- Be rude, abrupt, or too fast-paced in your delivery.
- Be vague about what's expected of the group.
- Offer assurances and guarantees that you can't fulfill.
- Fail to follow through. If you say you're going to do something, do it.
- Make decisions for Sample.
- Leave things up in the air, or decide by chance.

Wants and Needs

Motivation is the enthusiasm or willingness to do something. Everybody is motivated; however, all people are motivated for their own reasons, not somebody else's. Simply, people are motivated by what they want.

Our behaviors are also driven by our needs. Each style has different needs. If one person is stressed, they may need quiet time alone; another may need social time around a lot of people. Each has different ways to meet their needs. The more fully our needs are met, the easier it is to perform at an optimal level.

Choose the two most important wants and the two most important needs and transfer them to the Summary of Your Style page.

You Tend to Be Motivated By:

- High quality control standards that are respected by all members of the organization, not just by a few people.
- Complete explanations of systems and processes that impact the work environment.
- The knowledge that the products and services offered are of the highest quality.
- A home life that is supportive of work demands.
- The assurance that changes are made thoughtfully, carefully, and only when proven to be necessary.
- Appreciation for the competence and work ethic demonstrated over the long haul.
- Work projects of a highly specialized nature that support your natural curiosity and detail orientation, as well as allow you to demonstrate your skill and competence.

People With Patterns Like You Tend to Need:

- Job descriptions which are presented clearly (preferably in writing), with no ambiguities.
- Sufficient time for effective planning, especially prior to change.
- Complete explanations of processes and the internal systems used for completion.
- A method to be introduced to new groups of people or business associations.
- Greater participation in team efforts and activities which would provide you with a broader perspective and greater ability to see the "big picture."
- Options for increasing the efficiency of certain methods or procedures.
- Increased urgency in making decisions. To be able to shut the data gate and make a decision based on the information currently available.

What You Bring to the Organization

This page provides useful insights for a job or as you work together on a team or family project. These are the talents and tendencies you bring. When used in environments that you are most effective in, you are likely to be self-motivated to accomplish great things. It is possible that you may not always be in an environment that allows you to be your best. We recommend you speak with your leader to see what can be incorporated into your current environment to help maintain your motivation. Check the two most important strengths, the two most important work style tendencies and the two most important environmental factors and transfer them to the Summary of Your Style page.

Your Strengths:

- You provide valuable input on projects by considering possible pitfalls that others on the team may have overlooked.
- You demonstrate a high degree of technical specialty and skill in your area of expertise.
- You are not an extremist and tend to be supportive of team efforts.
- You are patient in working with others on the team and demonstrating detailed methods for completing a project.
- You have an excellent, considerate, analytical listening style.
- You provide an objective, reality-focused view of systems, procedures, and organizational operations.
- You are tactful in explaining ideas that may impact others on the team.

Your Work Style Tendencies:

- You will take calculated, educated risks only after a thoughtful analysis of the facts and data, and after you have examined all options and potential outcomes.
- You may get bogged down in details due to your tendency to keep the "data gate" open too long. You always worry that there may be more information forthcoming that can impact the direction of the decision.
- Naturally time-sensitive, you keep a careful eye on the organizational clock and maintain a keen awareness of timelines.
- You appreciate an occasional word of reassurance from your supervisor or board, as long as it is sincere input.
- You like your workspace to be neat, well organized, and tidy, with everything in its place.
- You set high performance standards for yourself and others, and expect everybody to meet those standards.
- You need to feel well-informed regarding specific details related to your area of authority and responsibility.

You Tend to Be Most Effective In Environments That Provide:

- Support for your critical thinking skills, and encouragement to make decisions based on logic over emotion.
- Activities that can be monitored from beginning to end.
- A work culture that demonstrates sincere care for the people involved.
- A workplace relatively free of interpersonal conflict and hostility.
- Sufficient time to adjust to changes in workplace procedures.
- Clear lines of authority and areas of responsibility, with minimal ambiguities.
- A secure work situation.

The S Style

Under Stress - Perceptions, Behavior and Needs for the S

Stress is unavoidable. The perceptions of our behavior may have a significant impact on our effectiveness - both in how we perceive ourselves and how others perceive us. The way we behave under stress can create a perception that is not what we intend. The descriptions below of perceptions by others may seem somewhat extreme at times (especially if our behavior is an over-extended strength that becomes a weakness or limitation). As you understand these perceptions more clearly, you are able to modify your behavior to maximize your own effectiveness and ensure that others see you as you intend.

Potential Self Perception:

- Does the necessary homework
- Does it right the first time and always
- Emotionally stable and in control
- Very high quality control

Under Stress, May be Perceived by Others:

- Overly sensitive to criticism
- Not open to new ideas
- Inflexible
- Takes on too much, doesn't share the work

Under Stress You Need:

- A slower pace for comfort and security
- Relationships
- Personal assurance

Your Typical Behaviors in Conflict:

- The anger and dissatisfaction that you have been repressing builds up inside of you and eventually some (often, trivial) event will trigger an explosion, releasing a torrent of angry words and a litany of past offenses -- often in considerable detail. Once you have vented this built up emotion, you return to your normal behavior.
- You may also feel that your feelings, needs and desires are not as important as those of others, which can encourage others to take advantage of you which, in turn, results in more repressed anger.
- You tend to do things to help and benefit others with the expectation that they will reciprocate in some appropriate way. However you rarely share these expectations. As a result, the other person fails to meet your expectations; leading to more repressed anger or hurt feelings on your part.

Strategies to Reduce Conflict and Increase Harmony:

- Recognize that others may be more comfortable dealing with conflict, anger, and aggression. Expressions of anger or somewhat aggressive behavior by others are not necessarily personal attacks on you.
- Share your needs, feelings and expectations with your friends and coworkers.
- Ask for what you need from your supervisor, friends and coworkers. Do not expect them to know what you want or what you are thinking. This will avoid many misunderstandings and increase your effectiveness and efficiency.

Potential Areas for Improvement

Everyone has struggles, limitations, or weaknesses. Oftentimes, it's simply an overextension of our strengths which may become a weakness. For example, a High D's directness may be a strength in certain environments, but when overextended they may tend to become bossy.

As you consider ways to continue to improve to be a better communicator, we recommend you focus on no more than two at a time, practice and strengthen them, and then choose another area to focus on and improve.

Check the two most important areas you are committed to improve upon and transfer them to the Summary of Your Style page.

Potential Areas for Improvement:

- You may sometimes use facts, figures, and details as a "security blanket" to avoid confrontation or hostility.
- You could benefit from a greater degree of self-confidence and an increased sense of urgency to accomplish activities on a tighter timeline.
- You may sometimes overthink or overexert yourself on standard or routine procedures.
- You may be perceived as slow in making decisions and tentative when it comes to making changes.
- You may be perceived by some as rigid, inflexible, and overly strict regarding procedures and options.
- You may be too tightly bound to established procedures and tradition, even as more efficient and effective methods become available.
- You may tend to spend more time than necessary on certain details, for fear of being seen as underprepared.

12 Behavioral Tendencies - Summary

The primary styles - D, I, S, and C - are each influenced by the other three styles in our behavioral expression. You are not just one of these styles; you are the result of all four combining and affecting each other. The following behavioral tendencies are scored based on the way your DISC styles combine and influence one another. On this page you'll see all 12 Behavioral Tendencies in Summary, and the following pages deliver more detail about each of these measurements.

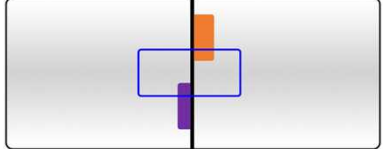

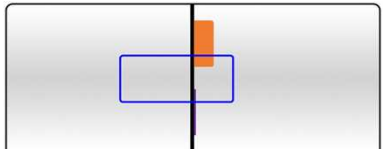

Behaviors	Natural	Adapted
Careful Decision Making How this individual approaches decisions and actions.	Situational	Situational
Reasoning How this individual uses evidence to think through and solve problems.	Situational	Situational
Self-Reliance How this individual works within a team.	Situational	Collaborative
Change Resistance How this individual resists engaging with change.	Situational	Reluctant to Change
Prioritizing How this individual determines the order for dealing with items or tasks based on established rules and structure.	Situational	Rules

12 Behavioral Tendencies – Details & Graphs

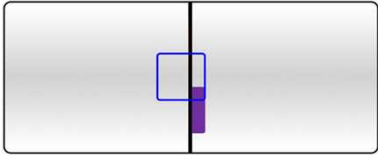

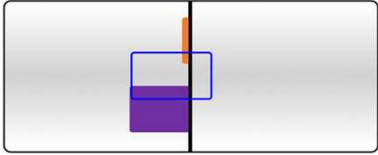

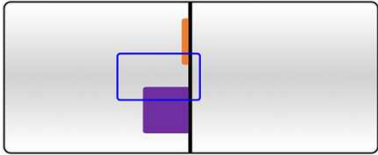

For each of the 12, you will see a graph and personalized statement for your Natural and Adapted style. These scores and statements reveal which of your style combinations are most observable and describe how you express that tendency based on your DISC blend.

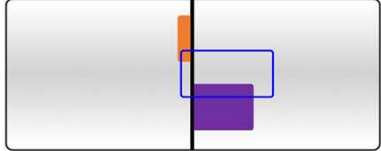

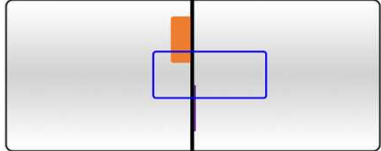

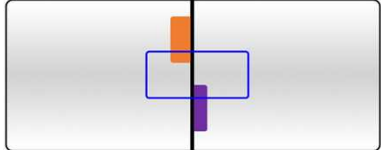

Interpretation Notes:

1. Frequency Observed: The behavioral tendencies are presented in the order from Most Frequently Observed to Least Frequently Observed.
 - HI – Clearly observed in most situations, seen more often
 - HM – Frequently observed in many situations
 - MOD – May or may not be observed depending on the situation
 - LM – Sometimes observed in some situations
 - LOW – Absence of the behavior in most situations
2. Direction of your score – As the graph moves to the right or left, it shows how you will likely express the behavior. If the graphs are near the center, the result is a balancing behavioral effect that will depend on the situation.
3. General Population Comparison – The blue box represents the general population in this behavioral tendency. Approximately 68% of people score in this range.

	Situational
Careful Decision Making Natural (MOD): You balance careful attention and consideration of risks, but may also act more impulsively, going with your gut and intuition. Your decisions can be based on a balanced approach of logic and emotion where you will do what feels right and also what makes sense while being attentive to risks. Adapted (MOD): Consistent with natural style	Impulsive Cautious
Reasoning Natural (MOD): You may rely somewhat on your feelings and interactions with others to make decisions, and choose what is likely to be considered acceptable but will seek to back up judgments with evidence and verification. When reasoning, you likely rely on a balanced approach of logic and emotion, and look at the circumstances with a logical perspective and also paying attention to what feels right. Adapted (MOD): Consistent with natural style	Intuition-based Evidence-based

Self-Reliance Natural (MOD): You balance results and interaction, getting things done efficiently, but also involving others to get this accomplished as effectively as possible. You are likely to be productive and efficient whether working independently or in collaboration with others, depending on the circumstances and variables of the work. Adapted (LM): You are quite attentive to involving others, preferring to reach results together, which may impact efficiency. You will likely do your best work in collaboration with others. Be aware that too much interaction may cause some delays in productivity or efficiency.	Situational  Collaborative Directive
Change Resistance Natural (MOD): You can be slow to accept or embrace change or more committed to your own thoughts and ideas during times of change, depending on the level of risk and expected outcome. There may be times when you actively accept and engage in change and other times you feel like more information and planning would be beneficial. You are likely to be on board, as long as things make sense. Adapted (HM): You are somewhat change oriented as long as you can prepare for it and understand the expectations associated as well as the reasons for the needed adjustments. You are likely to respond/interact in change by building understanding first, and then planning how to successfully navigate what may come. You won't always have time to fully prepare so flexibility and openness can be a benefit	 Drives Change Reluctant to Change
Prioritizing Natural (MOD): You are attentive to established guidelines to ensure high-quality results now and are focused on actions that target immediate accomplishment. You likely balance both rules and results when prioritizing, recognizing that both have significance in a successful experience and outcome. Adapted (HM): You often focus on following established structural and procedural guidelines to ensure high-quality outcomes with great importance on accuracy, order and precision. You are likely to prioritize the rules rather than the results. While the rules and procedures are a key component to success and what should take precedence, be sure you know what the end result should be.	 Results Rules
Work Process Alignment Natural (MOD): Your process and follow through is balanced between keeping things methodical and steady and upholding quality standards to be sure what you are doing is accurate and precise. Summary of Sample's Motivation

1. The lightly colored, shaded area for each Motivator highlights the majority of the population's scores. This means that if you took a normal sample of motivator scores and ranked the scores from 1 – 100, you can expect that a majority of the scores would fall inside the shaded area. This indicates if most of the population scores higher or lower in the dimension. Are you similarly driven in your Motivators as most others are?
2. The norm box (small box plot) represents the AVERAGE scoring range. The scores inside this box represent the scores of people who are more like everyone else (therefore, it is considered normal). When your score falls inside the norm box, it is situational; you consistently ranked the statements of that dimension both high and low.
3. The line in the center of the box plot represents the median score. Like the median in a road, the median divides the range of scores into equal halves. 50% of the scores are above the median line and 50% of the scores fall below the median line.
4. The colored bar is aligned to your score from 1-100. These reveal the level of importance of that motivator to you. Higher numbers mean you consistently ranked the motivator as more important & lower numbers mean the motivator was consistently ranked less important. The number also reveals placement in Very Low, Low, Average, High and Very High. The people who score within each group share common traits and descriptions (i.e. those who have Very Low scores will share common values with one another).
5. Your ranking reveals how influential the Motivators are to your behavior and decisions in order from 1-7. Keep in mind that some Motivators have relationships with other Motivators that strengthen them, but this is a true 1 through 7 ranking based on which are individually most impactful.

A Closer Look at the Seven Motivator Dimension Scores

Each descriptor below reveals your preference for shaping behavior and indicates what energizes you.

Motivator	Low Score Energized by...	High Score Energized by...
Aesthetic	Grounded Pragmatic and tangible approaches that bring concrete and reliable results.	Eccentric Achieving equilibrium and harmony between the world around you and yourself.
Economic	Satisfied Less competitive approaches and being more satisfied with what you already have.	Self-Mastered Self-interest, economic gains, and achieving real-world returns on efforts.
Individualistic	Secure Not seeking the limelight, keeping ideas to yourself, and less likelihood of self-promotion.	Unrestricted Expressing your autonomy and freedom from others' ideas and protocols.
Power	Submissive Supporting other people's efforts and a less focused approach to owning your own personal space.	Domineering Directing and controlling people, environments, and personal spaces.
Altruistic	Self-Focused Focusing on personal wants and needs and taking a more suspicious stance towards the moves of others.	Pushover Helping and eliminating pain and suffering of others at personal cost.
Regulatory	Defiant Remaining independent of as opposed to depending on the restrictive ideas of others.	Black & White Establishing routine, order, and setting boundaries for yourself and others.
Theoretical	Dis-Interested A more dismissive view of gathering new information and discovery while relying more on your natural instincts and past experiences for answers.	Scholarly Activities towards knowing everything that can be known about what you believe to be important and truthful.

Details of Sample's Motivation

This charting of your descriptors provides a better sense of what drives your motivation.

The motivator word matrix translates your numeric score into a one-word description and places each word in a relative position to other descriptors.

By labeling your numeric score with one word you can better understand, describe and locate your motivator orientation.

Your Aesthetic Motivator - High

The Aesthetic Motivator: Strong desire and need to achieve equilibrium between the world around us and ourselves (within) while creating a sustainable work/life balance between the two. Creative, imaginative, arty, mystical and expressive, this style may redefine or resist real world approaches to current challenges.

Universal Assets:

- You possess an inner awareness and desire to understand the moods, beliefs, and values of yourself and others.
- You tend to appreciate the deeper meanings in life, which may include interesting clothing, beautiful places, and alternative foods.
- You will really appreciate things and places purely for their intrinsic value rather than any status reasons.
- You prefer an enjoyable and meaningful work environment that makes your soul feel inspired.

Driving Intuitions:

- You ensure that creativity and form work in tandem with function and results.
- You bring unconventional thinking to the table. Make sure you aren't afraid to share your intuitive insights.
- You will work to live rather than live to work.
- You show an interest in the deeper meaning of ordinary things.

Critical Advantages:

- You will likely believe others think as unconventionally as you do.
- You will attempt to solve practical problems in unconventional ways.
- You show the aptitude to see beyond the common, and may bring a refreshing unconventionality to those around you.
- You likely think beyond yourself in regards to work and will seek balance between yourself and your surroundings.

Growth Opportunities:

- You could be using creative and complicated ideas as a safety blanket to avoid having to be overly pragmatic.
- It's OK that some don't understand and appreciate your passion and creativity as much as you do.
- Don't deliver a Cadillac when a Chevy will suffice.
- You could benefit from being a little more realistic.

Learning Paths:

- You combine new knowledge with creativity to achieve greater harmony and balance in work and life.
- You can assist teams in seeing beyond the present and thinking outside the box.
- As you learn new things, link them to your ability to see beyond the present and your unorthodox ideas.
- You have the ability to connect training and development to people's creativity and intuition.

Your Economic Motivator - Average

The Economic Motivator: The motivation for security from self-interest, economic gains, and achieving real-world returns on personal ventures, personal resources, and focused energy. The preferred approach of this motivator is both a personal and a professional one with a focus on ultimate outcomes.

Universal Assets:

- You are realistic and down-to-earth in regards to getting what you believe you deserve.
- Your score indicates a balance between being satisfied with what you have and the need for more.
- Your score indicates that there would be no excessive need to win when engaging with others.
- You have the ability to identify with individuals who have both high and low satisfaction rates.

Driving Intuitions:

- You are not an extremist when it comes to incentives.
- You are likely not bent on having to win in everything.
- You're an asset when it comes to getting along with both practical and imaginative types.
- You can leverage your ability to cooperate with all types of people.

Critical Advantages:

- You do not try to compete to the extent of creating dissension within the group.
- You're fine with helping others with their projects and initiatives without experiencing to "get yours."
- You can balance the needs and perspectives of those with different attitudes towards financial gain.
- You are not an extremist and, therefore, a stabilizing force when winning is required.

Growth Opportunities:

- Because you work to live as opposed to living to work, you could be missing out on greater opportunities.
- You should think about your financial future with stronger urgency.
- You should think about where you'll be in five years and if your current path will get you there.
- At times you may need to be more aware of time constraints.

Learning Paths:

- You can focus both on the ambitious and those who are content where they are.
- You should work with those who are not so concerned about leveraging their best interests.
- There are times when you need to put your foot down when team members lack incentive.
- You will be somewhat flexible between being cooperative and competitive.

Your Individualistic Motivator - Very Low

The Individualistic Motivator: Need to be seen as autonomous, unique, independent, and to stand apart from the crowd. This is the drive to be socially independent and have opportunity for freedom of personal expression apart from being told what to do.

Universal Assets:

- You will likely support others while rarely focusing on gaining the personal support you may want or need.
- You will not likely seek lime light roles, but rather stay back and support someone else.
- Since the squeaky wheel gets the grease, you'll need to speak up to be noticed more.
- Because you don't seek attention for your efforts, you may be left feeling like a ghost, never drawing attention to yourself.

Driving Intuitions:

- Don't accept leadership roles that make you uncomfortable.
- You may hide rather than thrive in team environments so don't be discouraged when people don't recognize your contribution.
- You'll prefer a supportive environment where members are equally recognized.
- You may need more support than you initially imagine.

Critical Advantages:

- You'll likely be the unsung hero of any project or team endeavor.
- You'll likely be seen as supportive and serene when the pressure is on.
- Not one to draw attention to your own efforts, you will likely be pointing out the efforts of others.
- You will be able to offer ideas with respect to others and their ideas.

Growth Opportunities:

- You may shutter to think about public speaking or directive roles.
- You may need to speak up more when you want to suggest something.
- You may not project your voice when speaking and may not be heard easily.
- You may not share your opinions openly and then later regret not saying something when the heat is off.

Learning Paths:

- You may enjoy more traditional activities as opposed to experiencing very unique or unusual settings.
- You will likely enjoy group activities.
- You may be more practical and less innovative.
- You should work in cooperative settings where no one is the star of the show.

Your Power Motivator - Very Low

The Power Motivator: Being seen as a leader, while having influence and control over one's environment and success. Competitiveness and control is often associated with those scoring higher in this motivational dimension.

Universal Assets:

- You won't want all the responsibility that comes with being in charge.
- You'll likely want to watch others lead more than you'll want to lead things yourself.
- You may be more of a maintainer than you are an obtainer.
- You may feel out of place on a team where people jockey for position.

Driving Intuitions:

- Just because people don't voice it, don't believe you haven't made a difference.
- Don't say yes to things you don't really want to do.
- Use your stabilizing ability when working with others and don't allow others to run you over.
- You won't need to ask for input once decisions are final and people have moved on.

Critical Advantages:

- Personal accomplishments far outweigh the need for recognition and power.
- You're a better helper and won't expect credit for all you do.
- You may quickly spot the value in others sooner than you see it in yourself.
- You won't likely drive, but will be happy to chat in the back seat.

Growth Opportunities:

- You may need to remind yourself that life is what you make it.
- You may be settling for less as opposed to fighting for what you want.
- You might second-guess your own ideas and therefore hang back.
- Standing up for yourself might feel wrong at times.

Learning Paths:

- You may not want to compete, but will feel at home when working as a team.
- You will likely enjoy group activities.
- Being forceful and determined isn't always bad.
- You may need to take stronger initiative when working with dominant types.

Your Altruistic Motivator - Low

The Altruistic Motivator: An expression of the need or energy to benefit others at the expense of self. At times, there's genuine sincerity in this dimension to help others, but not always. Oftentimes an intense level within this dimension is more associated with low self-worth.

Universal Assets:

- You may think in terms of you first and others last.
- You will prefer going it alone at times.
- You will not likely be moved by emotional appeals or sad faces.
- You will likely not appreciate people who don't carry their own weight.

Driving Intuitions:

- Your no nonsense approach could be taken wrong by the more sociable styles.
- Remember that there will be a decent amount of people that may believe you don't like them.
- You connect all outcomes to practical needs as opposed to people needs.
- Because you will gravitate towards independence when working, schedule time for independent activities.

Critical Advantages:

- You will likely make decisions that will benefit your future.
- You have little to no patience for ignorance.
- You will have a no nonsense approach to common sense.
- You will be difficult to take advantage of in business.

Growth Opportunities:

- Some people might misunderstand your motives.
- Some may see you as reserved and closed to their emotional appeals.
- You might be avoided by emotional "feeler" types especially if you're not a people person.
- You may be somewhat cutthroat when competing with others.

Learning Paths:

- You may likely be quiet and in the background when involved in training activities.
- You may need to step back and realize your strength when working with passive types.
- You may not feel at home when working emotionally with teams.
- You may not enjoy cooperative learning activities as opposed to activities that require directing and controlling.

Your Regulatory Motivator - High

The Regulatory Motivator: A need to establish order, routine and structure. This motivation is to promote a black and white mindset and a traditional approach to problems and challenges through standards, rules, and protocols to color within the lines.

Universal Assets:

- You understand and appreciate authority, accountability, and responsibility.
- You probably believe there's only one-way to get things done: your way.
- You are likely looking for a cause and a purpose to live up to.
- You think in terms of, "I brought you into this world, I can take you out," when dealing with unruly children.

Driving Intuitions:

- You will prefer private correction that is proven necessary.
- You will need the right amount of time to make the necessary changes you need to make.
- You need to believe it's worth it before you make important changes.
- You need to be profusely convinced or you won't change your mind.

Critical Advantages:

- You may have very strong views.
- Your ideas are likely to be proven reliable.
- You don't waiver from this to that, but will be steadfast in your thinking.
- You won't appreciate people who can't make up their mind.

Growth Opportunities:

- Have some fun and be more spontaneous.
- You should be just a bit more open to being wrong.
- You should experiment with more independence.
- You should not be so closed-minded.

Learning Paths:

- You should be exposed to others who take more risks and allow yourself the benefit of being around them.
- Your learning and development should connect you and your inside the box thinking to outside of the box leaders.
- Your learning development should be connected to traditional venues.
- Your learning activities need to be structured and outlined.

Your Theoretical Motivator - High

The Theoretical Motivator: The desire to uncover, discover, and recover the "truth." This need to gain knowledge for knowledge sake is the result of an "itchy" brain. Rational thinking (frontal lobe), reasoning and problem solving are important to this dimension. This is all about the "need" to know why.

Universal Assets:

- You need cognitive challenges or you may become bored.
- You will stick with it until you figure out what is wrong.
- You love learning things you never knew.
- You likely fear looking stupid in front of other people.

Driving Intuitions:

- You need more opportunities to expand your theoretical bandwidth.
- You prefer knowledge-based incentives.
- You will prefer opportunities that draw upon your expertise.
- As a life-long learner, you will continue to look for ways to grow and understand.

Critical Advantages:

- You have patience for analyzing.
- You will not quit until the problem is understood.
- You are likely a vigorous problem solver.
- You do your homework most of the time.

Growth Opportunities:

- You should be more open to being wrong.
- You may be over corrective when around others who know less than you.
- You're not the only one who is right.
- You may have a fear of looking stupid, or not knowing.

Learning Paths:

- Your learning activities need to be structured and outlined.
- Your learning and development should be connected to an ongoing stratagem for personal development.
- You should be exposed to others who take more risks and allow yourself the benefit of being around them.
- Your training and development should involve reliable information that makes logical sense.

PART III UNDERSTANDING OTHERS AND ADAPTABILITY

People generally make the mistake of assuming that others interact and think the same way they do, and many of us grew up believing in The Golden Rule: treating others the way you would like to be treated. Instead, we encourage another practical rule to live by - what Dr. Tony Alessandra calls The Platinum Rule®: to treat others the way THEY want to be treated.

DISC ADAPTABILITY

People want to be treated according to their style, not yours.

Adapting to another's behavioral preference is not always easy! Adaptability is based on two elements: Flexibility and Aptitude to adjust your approach or strategy based on the particular needs of the situation or relationship at a particular time. Flexibility is your Willingness and Aptitude is your Capability. Adaptability is something you must cognitively choose to apply to yourself (to your patterns, attitudes and habits), not expect from others.

Adaptability does not mean an "imitation" of the other person's style. It does mean adjusting your openness, directness, pace, and priority in the direction of the other person's preference, while maintaining your own identity.

We practice adaptability each time we slow down for a C or S style; or when we move a bit faster for the D or I style. It also occurs when the D or C styles take the time to build the relationship with an S or I style, or when the I or S style focuses on facts or gets right to the point with D or C styles.

Important:

- Adaptability is important to all successful relationships.
- No one style is naturally more adaptable than another.
- Adaptability is a choice:
 - You can choose to be adaptable with one person, and not so with others.
 - You can choose to be quite adaptable with one person today and less adaptable with that same individual tomorrow.

Adaptability is dependent on recognizing another's person's behavioral style.

To quickly determine someone's style, ask these 2 questions & based on the answers, adapt accordingly:

1. Are they DIRECT or INDIRECT in their communication?

2. Are they GUARDED or OPEN in their communication?

Direct Style: D or I Enthusiastic, competitive and results focus, fast paced	Guarded Style: D or C More private, specific, logical and analytical, task focus
Indirect Style: C or S Reserved, cooperative & patient, slower/deliberate	Open Style: I or S Desire to build a connection with others, relationship focus

MOTIVATORS ADAPTABILITY

Adapting to another's Motivational preference can be quite difficult! Sometimes Motivations are not readily observable, or may be disguised in behavior that doesn't align to them. A key way to understand another's Motivations is to pay attention to the things they value, the way they speak, and where they spend their time and attention (or other resources). What do you see that drives them? You can use some of these questions to guide your discovery; you may ask them or just observe. Once you know someone's Motivators, you can interact with them in a more effective way.

Aesthetic 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What is beautiful to you? • How important is it for you that you can express yourself creatively? • Are form and aesthetics more important, or is functionality more important? • How important is work/life balance? • Do you find that you are more "head in the clouds" or more practical?

- Write things down

STEADY STYLE

HELP THEM TO:

- Utilize shortcuts and discard unnecessary steps
- Track their growth
- Avoid doing things the same way
- Realize there is more than one approach to tasks
- Become more open to some risks and changes
- Feel sincerely appreciated
- Speak up and voice their thoughts and feelings

CONSCIENTIOUS STYLE

HELP THEM TO:

- Share their knowledge and expertise with others
- Stand up for themselves with the people they prefer to avoid
- Shoot for realistic deadlines and parameters
- View people and tasks less seriously and critically
- Balance their lives with both interaction and tasks
- Keep on course with tasks, less checking
- Maintain high expectations for high priority items, not everything

Adapting in Different Situations: IN SALES AND SERVICE

DOMINANT STYLE

- Plan to be prepared, organized, fast-paced, and always to the point
- Meet them in a professional and businesslike manner
- Learn and study their goals and objectives – what they want to accomplish, how they currently are motivated to do things, and what they would like to change
- Suggest solutions with clearly defined and agreed upon consequences as well as rewards that relate specifically to their goals
- Get to the point
- Provide options and let them make the decision, when possible

INFLUENCING STYLE

- Take the initiative by introducing yourself in a friendly and informal manner and be open to new topics that seem to interest them
- Support their dreams and goals
- Illustrate your ideas with stories and emotional descriptions that they can relate to their goals or interests
- Clearly summarize details and direct these toward mutually agreeable objectives and action steps
- Provide incentives to encourage quicker decisions
- Give them testimonials

STEADY STYLE

- Get to know them more personally and approach them in a non-threatening, pleasant, and friendly, but professional way
- Develop trust, friendship, and credibility at a relatively slow pace
- Ask them to identify their own emotional needs as well as their task or business expectations
- Get them involved by focusing on the human element... that is, how something affects them and their relationships with others
- Avoid rushing them and give them personal, concrete assurances, when appropriate
- Communicate with them in a consistent manner on a regular basis

CONSCIENTIOUS STYLE

- Prepare so that you can answer as many of their questions as soon as possible
- Greet them cordially, but proceed quickly to the task; don't start with personal or social talk
- Hone your skills in practicality and logic
- Ask questions that reveal a clear direction and that fit into the overall scheme of things
- Document how and why something applies
- Give them time to think; avoid pushing them into a hasty decision
- Tell them both the pros and cons and the complete story
- Follow through and deliver what you promise

Adapting in Different Situations: IN SOCIAL SETTINGS

DOMINANT STYLE

- Let them know that you don't intend to waste their time
- Convey openness and acceptance of them
- Listen to their suggestions
- Summarize their achievements and accomplishments
- Give them your time and undivided attention
- Appreciate and acknowledge them when possible

INFLUENCING STYLE

- Focus on a positive, upbeat, warm approach
- Listen to their personal feelings and experiences
- Respond openly and congenially
- Avoid negative or messy problem discussions
- Make suggestions that allow them to look good
- Don't require much follow-up, detail or long-term commitments
- Give them your attention, time and presence

STEADY STYLE

- Focus on a slower-paced, steady approach
- Avoid arguments and conflict
- Respond sensitively and sensibly
- Privately acknowledge them with specific, believable compliments
- Allow them to follow through on concrete tasks
- Show them step-by-step procedures
- Behave pleasantly and optimistically
- Give them stability and minimum of change

CONSCIENTIOUS STYLE

- Use a logical approach
- Listen to their concerns, reasoning, and suggestions
- Respond formally and politely
- Negative discussions are OK, so long as they aren't personally directed
- Privately acknowledge them about their thinking
- Focus on how pleased you are with their procedures
- Solicit their insights and suggestions
- Show them by what you do, not what you say

Adapting in Different Situations: IN LEARNING ENVIRONMENTS

DOMINANT STYLE

- Likes to learn quickly; may be frustrated with a slower pace
- Has own internal motivation-clock, learns for their own reasons, not for anyone else's reasons
- May like to structure their own learning design
- Does okay with independent self-study
- Defines own goals
- May have a short attention span

INFLUENCING STYLE

- Likes learning in groups
- Interacts frequently with others
- Responds to extrinsic motivation, praise, and encouragement
- Needs structure from the facilitator; may lose track of time
- Needs "what to do" and "when to do it"
- May exceed deadlines if left on their own and learning may be completed late

STEADY STYLE

- Accepts a balance between individual and group work
- Shows patience with detailed or technical processes
- Likes journaling and follow-through
- Prefers explicit instructions
- Wants to know the performance outcomes and expectations
- May need help in prioritizing tasks if a long assignment; may take criticism personally

CONSCIENTIOUS STYLE

- Prefers individual work over group interaction
- Accepts more impersonal training, such as remote or on-line
- Has high expectations of their own performance
- Will structure their own activities only with explicit goals and outcomes established
- Emphasizes details, deep thinking, and theoretical bases for the learning
- May get overly bogged down in details, especially if the learning climate is pressured

A DEEPER LOOK AT THE FOUR DISCStyles™

Below is a chart to help you understand some of the characteristics of each of the Four Basic DISC Styles, so you can interact with each style more effectively. DISC Application Activities

Adaptability Practice

Spend some time with people at home and at work that you know and trust who are different styles than you. Explore ways to communicate more effectively with them. Ask for support and feedback as you try new ways to communicate. Remember- tell them this is a skill you are building so they aren't surprised when you are behaving differently and can provide helpful feedback!

- Practice Identifying their style based on observable behavior
- Practice Modifying your Directness and Openness in conversation with them
- Practice Modifying your Pace and Priority
- Ask for feedback on your effectiveness in communicating with them
- Take some time to reflect on your experience and what worked or didn't work for you and for them
- Consider what you should repeat, and what you need to modify further to communicate as effectively as possible.

As you begin feeling more comfortable with adaptability and the needs of each style, try it with others!

Adaptability Activity

Select a relationship in which things have not gone as smoothly as you would like. Make a commitment to take the time to gain an understanding of the other person's behavioral style and take a few steps to adapt your behavior to improve the relationship.

- 1 Identify the behavioral style of the other person using the 2 Power Questions:
 - Are they DIRECT or INDIRECT in their communication?
 - Are they GUARDED or OPEN in their communication?
- 2 Brush up on their style and look at ways to adapt your Directness and Openness when working with them.
- 3 To further understand the tension that may exist in the relationship, notice the difference in preference in pace and priority and modify accordingly.
- 4 Practice approaching them in the way you think THEY want to be treated. Remember, it may feel uncomfortable at first, but with practice and dedication to adapting, you will be amazed at the difference.

Tension Among the Styles Exercise

Even if you have the highest regard toward a person, tension can exist in a relationship where styles are different. If this is behavior related, applying The Platinum Rule® - Treat others the way THEY want to be treated – may be helpful. Complete this exercise to gain insights on how to improve tense relationships. If you feel comfortable, you may discuss with the other person things you can do to ease the tension.

Create a DISC POWER TEAM

Wouldn't it be amazing to have a DISC POWER TEAM where all members brought their best strengths to the table, and each of our challenges could be supported by someone who was skilled in the areas we struggle?

Considering the strengths and workplace behaviors for each style, who would be an ideal DISC POWER TEAM Member?

	DOMINANT STYLE		INFLUENCING STYLE		STEADY STYLE		CONSCIENTIOUS STYLE
STRENGTHS	Supervising Leading Pioneering		Persuading Motivating Entertaining		Listening Teamwork Follow-through		Planning Systemizing Orchestration
WORKPLACE BEHAVIORS	Efficient Busy Directive		Interacting Active Personal		Friendly Purposeful Sincere		Formal Functional Structured
TEAM MEMBER

For an upcoming project, consider how your DISC POWER TEAM could accomplish greatness!

- Assign responsibilities based on strengths
- Determine what opportunities or challenges exist or may come up
- Give each Team Member the opportunity to showcase their skills and experience
- Check in regularly and discuss as a team how it's going
- Provide feedback regarding roles, strengths, needs, and any additional support required

Guidelines to help you explore and apply what is in this report.

1. The scores in this report are a snapshot in time. These scores represent your preference-pathways (desires, such as being in control or not) at the time you completed the survey. These are not lifelong motivators from which you have no choice or power to influence. Your scores are not the end of your learning they are the beginning of what you have learned.
2. There are no good or bad scores to have, but there are consequences. If you do not like the level of effort you feel toward your goals, how you are behaving toward others or how others are behaving toward you, you can influence them through intended behavior and emotions (See your DISC).
3. The key is to understand your motivational preferences so you can flex with the situation to encourage progress.

What works?

- Decide what level of effort and intensity (energy) you want to use moving forward.
- Pick one simple behavior such as how long you take to think through a problem or how you endeavor to get what you need from someone.
- Make it easier to do using your motivational orientation you have right now, rather than finding a greater or a more difficult motivational element.
- It is important for you to develop a practical understanding of your own motivational orientation so you do not trick yourself into feeling you lack motivation. We are all motivated but we may lack the “emotional energy” (your natural/concealed DISC graph) for the process of getting what we want.

What is proven not to work?

- Not starting or giving up.
- Getting more information. Information may help to change your attitude and intention but information alone does not work well to change your behaviors. Advice is hard to give and receive. When you hear advice, you may not be sure it will work for you. The way to get unstuck is not becoming extreme by exaggerating your efforts or stopping them altogether. Try doing something small and then look at the evidence.
- Wanting to get better at something is easy. Sticking with small changes is a different story.
- Avoid pursuing “ideal motivational activities or work.” Instead, improve your pursuit of vital work/activities using your natural motivational orientation within this report.

Tiny Steps, Big Results Plan

You are only a few behaviors away from making progress.

Where do I currently excel at work and what motivators are in play already?

Which motivators don't need any additional attention?

With which motivators am I currently struggling and need an extra boost?

Using my understanding of my motivational orientation, which types of additional motivations would work best for me right now?

Using my understanding of my motivational orientation, which types of additional motivations would not work for me right now?

Choose one harmful influence on your motivational orientation (take in small steps) to act on today. Then, practice and repeat.

Choose one positive influences on your motivational orientation (take in small steps) to act on today. Then, practice and repeat

We all are motivated to get better but we get stuck with the process we must go through to move toward what we want. How can I make the process of making progress smaller and simpler? List up to three (3).
