

Profile Directions

You are about to complete a two-part value profile. Please read the directions below carefully and when you feel you are ready to begin, click the 'Continue' button to the right.

Each part of the value profile consists of 18 unique words or phrases representing items on which individuals place different value. Value, in each case, means what you consider to be good or bad. To complete the value profile, follow the steps below. Read all of the words and phrases carefully. If you don't understand a word or phrase, please ask what it means.

1. Click the plus (+) or minus (-)  buttons located to the left of each word or phrase to indicate whether you believe the item is good (+) or bad (-). The word or phrase will turn blue for good or red for bad.
2. Now sort the words and phrases from best to worst such that the item you feel is best ends up at the top or first position. Click on the blue items and 'drag' them toward the top of the list, 'dropping' them on top of other items. This action will move all the red items toward the bottom of the list at the same time.
3. Continue dragging items up or down until you are satisfied that all words and phrases are in order from best to worst. The word or phrase that you feel is best, should end up at the top position followed by the second best item in the second position and so on. The word or phrase you feel is worst, should end up at the bottom position.

Decide quickly — your initial reactions will be the most accurate. Do not discuss the responses until you have ranked all of the items. There is no time limit, but most people are able to complete the ranking of all words or phrases in ten to fifteen minutes. Please begin by clicking on the 'Continue' button.
